

A search results page layout. At the top, there is a black header bar. Below it, a large, light gray rectangular area contains five horizontal white input fields for search criteria. At the bottom left of this area, there is a small white rectangular box with a red 'X' icon, likely representing a search filter or a result count.

